

"Make Home Happy,"
More than building show mansions,
More than dress and the array;
More than dimes and fifty cent,
More than stables, power and sea-
Crest, it casts our wisest ash,
Make your home both neat and tasteful,
Bright and pleasant, always fair,
Where each heart shall rest contented,
Grateful for each pleasure there.

There each heart will rest contented,
Seldom wishing for to roam,
Or for roaming, still will over,
Christ's happy thoughts of home,
Such a home makes men the better,
Saves and lasting the control,
Home, with pure and bright surroundings,
Leaves its impress on the soul.

Lights Along the Shore.
The wild sea thunders on the shore,
The wind blows chill from off the coast,
The sea-gulls gather on the cliffs,
And prate and chatter of the cold;
The hoarse wind howls, the sun has set,
And 'tis dark, I tell you, dark and dreary,
Crest, it casts our wisest ash,
In tempest and in misery.

A singing voice came up the cliffs,
A child with blue eyes, grave and sweet,
And fair hair blown about in the breeze,
Sped up the coast with flying feet,
"The fishing boats are in" she cried,
"We've watched for them a day or more,"
And looking down I saw the nets,
And lights were glancing on the shore.

"At your eye my mother wept,
The white gulls flew about the coast,
The great waves beat upon the sand,
The surf rolled in so heavily;
At your door she stands and waits,
And looks for you with anxious eyes,
"I thank thee, oh my God!" I said,
"There are whose ships come back at last!"

—Annie La Folle, in Scribner's.

A FIERY CHASTENING.

The lights streamed forth gaily from the windows of the town hall of Bridgestoke, and there were sounds of festivity within. Mr. Robertson, the head of the principal banking firm of the town, was giving his annual ball. All the select society within several miles was gathered there, and the dancing in the evening number of the Bridgestoke Guardian as "a very brilliant assembly."

Lillian Grey was undeniably a co-quette, and as undeniably the belle of the ball. A face of wild, haunting beauty, with its dark, brilliant eyes, raven hair, a superbly modelled figure,
and an air of queenly grace were fascinations that proved irresistible to the male admirers who thronged the ballroom.

Mrs. Grey was watching her all-charming daughter, with a complacent smile on her stately features. She was a widow, with comfortable means, and considerable means, and Lillian was her only child. They lived at Burnham house—a handsome residence standing in its own grounds in the outskirts of the town.

Twice Lillian had danced with a tall gentleman of distinguished appearance, who was some fifteen years in her advance. After the second time, he stood by her chair, talking to her in a handsome, broad-shouldered, hair-haired young man approached them.

"My next partner," said Lillian, with a faint gleam of color.
"Will you introduce me?" observed the tall gentleman.

"Certainly. You have come to commune with me, George? This is an old friend of mine, your father, Mr. George Howell—Lord Walworth."

They shook hands, and the introduction was made. Lillian's husband, who was a widower, with an interesting little girl, and also a large landed property.

He was the most matrimonial catch in the country, as he was a man of mamma knew; and that he—a man of more than local regard—should be present at the ball to-night was a matter of much comment.

A few minutes after, when the music commenced, Lillian arose, and with George Howell's arm around her waist, glided around the room in the may-waltz. They stopped by a easement leading into a conservatory, from thence issued the perfume of choice exotics.

"Lillian, I wish to speak with you a moment. Will you come in here with me?"

He drew her through the easement, notwithstanding that she hesitated; and after uttering a little word in silence, they sat down.

"Will you let me look at your programme?"

"I bring you a silver cord from her waist. Without a word, she handed it to him."

"It is W. Lillian," he said, "twice, three times to him."

"Lord Walworth," he replied, gently.
"What does it mean?" he asked, in a low tone.

"She toyed with her fan and was silent."

"I thought we had known each other too long, Lillian, for there to be any secret between us. What—did you of my truth, honest love, did you not bid me say? I am not wealthy, but I have sufficient to provide for my children for you. I have waited, and what do you say to me now?"

"That I never can love you, George,
dear, as you wish, she said tremulously. "You must not speak to me so again. You forget that we are not girl and brother together. We have grown up, George."

"I know it to my cost," he said, bitterly. "In the old days you did what you with me, and now you are as cold as ice, and, by Jove! you are as sad as ever."

"You must not love me, George; you will know why, later on. My present answer is final."

"Yes, my child! Your answers are always final, Lillian, and are subject to change like the weather. Really, I think I'm a most long-enduring man."

"But I mean it this time. I have reasons."

"What are they?"

"I ought to tell you; but you will know soon enough. I am engaged to be married, George."

"Engaged!" he gasped, beneath his breath.

"Yes; to Lord Walworth. It took place yesterday. And she sighed a little."

He was quiet a few moments, and then he asked in a soft, changed voice,
"Do I understand, Miss Grey, that everything is settled?"

"She nodded, without looking up."

"I shall go away," he said, strangely, after a further pause. "You need not fear my presence any more, Miss Grey.
I shall leave by the train for Liverpool. I shall try to mend a broken heart in a foreign land." And he rose as if to go.

"Oh, do not take it to heart, to George," she murmured, and her little white-gloved hand crept up entreatingly to his arm. "Don't be so far away; for as others as beautiful as

"I think, so too, I will call you, Miss Grey."

"Stay—stay, Charlie! Do you know what his Christian name is? Think,
now."

And there was an earnestness in the deep tones that went straight to her heart.

"Yes, yes—his name is 'Charlie'!"

"Was it, Lillian? Can you remember that name?"

"Yes, yes—his name is 'Charlie'!"

"It can't be, he said the name of the mourned tones in soliloquy; and then, "Is
she very beautiful, Charlie?"

"What is it, Lillian? And she has a big red mark all down her cheek; so," and he
put his little finger along his face anxiously. "But her eyes are very bright."

"Barned!" came the whispered voice,
breathlessly.

"She told me, at my risk, she must pretend sleep now, rather than admit she
had heard so much."

"Yes, indeed. It was at a ball a few years ago, when she was a girl, and
beautiful, and going to be married soon,
to a lord; but after that she wouldn't
have her."

"But her face was buried on her arm,
as before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Miss Grey, you have not been asleep;
you have heard what was said. Are you
the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently?"

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"I think, so too, I will call you, Miss Grey."

"Stay—stay, Charlie! Do you know what his Christian name is? Think,
now."

And there was an earnestness in the deep tones that went straight to her
heart.

"Yes, yes—his name is 'Charlie'!"

"Was it, Lillian? Can you remember that
name?"

"Yes, yes—his name is 'Charlie'!"

"It can't be, he said the name of the
mourned tones in soliloquy; and then, "Is
she very beautiful, Charlie?"

"What is it, Lillian? And she has a big
red mark all down her cheek; so," and he
put his little finger along his face
anxiously. "But her eyes are very
bright."

"Barned!" came the whispered voice,
breathlessly.

"She told me, at my risk, she must pre-
tend sleep now, rather than admit she
had heard so much."

"Yes, indeed. It was at a ball a few years ago, when she was a girl, and
beautiful, and going to be married soon,
to a lord; but after that she wouldn't
have her."

"But her face was buried on her arm,
as before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Miss Grey, you have not been asleep;
you have heard what was said. Are you
the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently?"

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"I think, so too, I will call you, Miss Grey."

"Stay—stay, Charlie! Do you know what his Christian name is? Think,
now."

And there was an earnestness in the deep tones that went straight to her
heart.

"Yes, yes—his name is 'Charlie'!"

"Was it, Lillian? Can you remember that
name?"

"Yes, yes—his name is 'Charlie'!"

"It can't be, he said the name of the
mourned tones in soliloquy; and then, "Is
she very beautiful, Charlie?"

"What is it, Lillian? And she has a big
red mark all down her cheek; so," and he
put his little finger along his face
anxiously. "But her eyes are very
bright."

"Barned!" came the whispered voice,
breathlessly.

"She told me, at my risk, she must pre-
tend sleep now, rather than admit she
had heard so much."

"Yes, indeed. It was at a ball a few years ago, when she was a girl, and
beautiful, and going to be married soon,
to a lord; but after that she wouldn't
have her."

"But her face was buried on her arm,
as before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Miss Grey, you have not been asleep;
you have heard what was said. Are you
the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently?"

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed; "I am
altered since my accident. You haven't
seen me. You would not ask me if I
were the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"I think, so too, I will call you, Miss Grey."

"Stay—stay, Charlie! Do you know what his Christian name is? Think,
now."

And there was an earnestness in the deep tones that went straight to her
heart.

"Yes, yes—his name is 'Charlie'!"

"Was it, Lillian? Can you remember that
name?"

"Yes, yes—his name is 'Charlie'!"

"It can't be, he said the name of the
mourned tones in soliloquy; and then, "Is
she very beautiful, Charlie?"

"What is it, Lillian? And she has a big
red mark all down her cheek; so," and he
put his little finger along his face
anxiously. "But her eyes are very
bright."

"Barned!" came the whispered voice,
breathlessly.

"She told me, at my risk, she must pre-
tend sleep now, rather than admit she
had heard so much."

"Yes, indeed. It was at a ball a few years ago, when she was a girl, and
beautiful, and going to be married soon,
to a lord; but after that she wouldn't
have her."

"But her face was buried on her arm,
as before, and the tears were flowing
silently."

"Miss Grey, you have not been asleep;
you have heard what was said. Are you
the girl who had a red mark on her
face, and who was buried on her arm, as
before, and the tears were flowing
silently?"

"Do you not remember what I then
said about your beauty, Lillian? You
said you would always be beautiful to me.
Then give me your answer before I see
you, now."

"No, George," she sobbed;

The Centre Reporter.
FRED KURTZ, Editor.
CENTRE HALL, PA., Oct. 27, 1881.
Democratic State Nomination.
FOR STATE TREASURER:
ORANGE NOBLE, of Erie.
DEMOCRATIC COUNTY TICKET.
For Associate Judge, J. G. Larimer.
For Sheriff, Thos. J. Donkle.
For Treasurer, D. C. Keller.
For Prothonotary, J. C. Harper.
For Register, James A. McClain.
For Recorder, Frank S. Noble.
For Commissioners, J. J. O'Neil, John Wolf, John Wolf.
For Auditors, F. P. Mosser.

Democrats of Centre, the election is near at hand; it remains for you to say whether the republican boast that they will elect a pair of their ticket, shall prove true. Why should any democrat out any name upon his ticket? There never was a better set of men presented to the people. Never were nominations made with a greater degree of fairness. A defeat of any portion of the ticket will be of damaging effect in the future.

We do not believe that any part of our ticket is in danger, simply because we know of no reason why it should be, so far as the good name of any of our nominees is concerned. But there may be danger from apathy and failure of democrats to attend the election. Let there be a full vote, and an old fashioned majority.

The Lehigh Journal reached us enlarged to an 8 column sheet, and printed upon a new Hoe power press. We are pleased to see this evidence of our neighbor's prosperity—he makes a neat paper of the Journal and deserves success.

Every body with a good conscience can support a Bible—we mean the one the democrats have nominated for Recorder. He is a frank Bible, too, in every sense of the word. Bob Rogers will not go for him, of course, he loathes the very name of Bible. Our Bible on the ticket, is competent, and a self-made industrious young man.

The Pittsburg Post says the latest fraud developments at Washington are of extreme plundering of the Government in 1872, under Grant, in the issue of land warrants under the military bounty act. It appears that certain officials in the Interior Department conspired together, and had printed a full set of blanks like those used by the Government in applications for military bounty and land warrants. These blanks were filled out, under the name of the Government, and were sent to the various land agents, and were to be acknowledged or sworn to before a notary, public or clerk of a court, whose seal and signature were forged. The papers, apparently correct upon their face, were, from beginning to end, forgeries and purgeries. They were, nevertheless, given out, and the Government was forced to issue them, and these warrants were issued upon them, and these warrants sold in market or located upon the public lands, and sent to the Land Office for record. It was here that the fraud was first detected. These facts were all set forth in the report of a special agent of the Interior Department, Secretary Kirkwood suppressed the report. When, in the name of the Almighty Dollar, is the country to reach an end of Republican stealing under President Grant and fraudulent Hayes.

The Pope set up a wall of woe, the other day, stating in his address to the Italian pilgrims at St. Peter's, that the deplorable state of affairs placed before him the alternative of enduring continual captivity, made harder daily, or of going into exile. He then said that Catholics to watch and pray for the liberty and independence of the pope. He concluded by saying that he was no longer secure in his place; that he was outraged in his person and dignity in a thousand ways.

The gravity and earnestness of the pope made a profound impression. He closed his address with his arms raised to Heaven as though imploring help.

Whatever may throw light upon the never returned Franklin expedition will be read with interest by the civilized world.

Captain Adams, of the Dundee whaler Arctic, returned from Davis Strait, says he visited the scene of the loss of the Erebus and Terror of the Franklin expedition. He found the house and store of provisions near the Franklin monument in a wretched condition.

In Fary-sand-Hoia straits an Esquimaux gave him particulars which appeared to clear up the fate of the last survivors of the Franklin expedition. After the loss of the ships seventeen men started overland, hoping to reach Hudson bay. Only three of them survived the journey to the narrows of the straits. One of these, who is supposed to be Lieutenant Crozier, died first. The death of the others followed.

It is said that one of the reasons why Attorney General MacVeigh wishes to leave the Cabinet is that he may become the leader of a reform party and its possible candidate for the Presidency in 1884. His short experience in office has convinced him, so his intimate friends say, that a thorough reform in all departments of the government is absolutely necessary to protect it against long continued schemes for plundering the Treasury. So Garfield's Cabinet is to furnish at least two aspirants for Presidential honors.

So says the Herald's Washington correspondent, and we would add that Mr. MacVeigh is one of the best men in the republic party. He took one of Simon Cameron's daughters, it is true, but he did not wed Simon Cameron, in which he has always acted as a feminist faction of the party.

Democrats are you ready for the 8th of November? Don't trade; don't stay at home; see that your democratic neighbor is aroused.

Our ticket is made up of good men all through.

The republicans have the state and national offices and are anxious to grab a few more in this county, you will let them do it, and cut out men who are workers in our party?

THE LOTTERY OF ASSASSINATION.
Senator Edmunds, the pre-ent Republican leader at Washington, denounced the election of Mr. Bayard as President of the Senate as a prize drawn by the lot. Mr. Edmunds, says the New York Sun, seems to forget that the assassin Guiteau, the demagogue murderer who fired the deadly shot at President Garfield, is like Mr. Edmunds, an ultra Republican. He says he was divinely inspired to kill the President in order to rescue the nation from the clutches of the Republican party. Ex-cept by his murder, he could not see any other means of keeping the Democracy out of power.

So far as can be gathered from their public utterances, Guiteau and Edmunds seem to be about equally irrational regarding the restoration of the Democracy to the control of the Government. Both the assassin and Senator regard the Republican party as a kind of a divine institution. The one murdered the President because of insane delusion. The other hurries to the crime of assassination for extending their constitutional and legal rights in the election of Thomas F. Bayard to be President of the Senate.

It is an absurd stretch of fanatical partisanship on the part of Mr. Edmunds, but this absurdity is much less than the absurdity of the same Edmunds in 1876, when he conspired with him, in some respects worse than himself, to set aside the Presidential election, and to put Rutherford B. Hayes into the office to which Samuel J. Tilden had been chosen. Then he was ready to commit the most heinous crime of keeping the Democracy out of power, and now he is a Democrat. Now his conduct is less atrocious, but his spirit is the same. It is not a spirit of high patriotism or of sound rationality.

Note for REXFORD and LAMMER, for associate judges, they are both old and respectable citizens of our county.

WITNESSES WANTED FOR GUILTEAU.

Scoville, Guiteau's counsel wants witnesses for the assassin to prove his insanity; as all Guiteau's associates were rank republicans, we publish the appeal in the Republican for the information of such.

"To the Public:
The trial for Guiteau is fixed for Nov. 7. The short time allowed makes this appeal to the public necessary. Will the press kindly copy it. He attempted to lecture on religious subjects, and was arrested under a warrant. It is believed there are many people in that connection who can, if they will, give evidence of such."

"The trial for Guiteau is fixed for Nov. 7. The short time allowed makes this appeal to the public necessary. Will the press kindly copy it. He attempted to lecture on religious subjects, and was arrested under a warrant. It is believed there are many people in that connection who can, if they will, give evidence of such."

There are any Democrats who think of voting for Wolfe, they should remember they are contributing a vote for Bailey, the Republican candidate. It is a Republican quarrel, and he is the right man for the job. The Democratic candidate will certainly be elected if he receives the party vote.

Vote for HARPER, for prothonotary. He has been a faithful officer and performed his whole duty.

Obviously great terror exists in Ireland. Sarah Parnell, sister of the imprisoned leader, telegraphs to America: "Bayonet and bullet work going on all over Ireland. Terrorism and bloodshed on every hand. New outrages on our people are reported every moment. A young girl was deliberately shot in her own parlor by Constables, in Limerick yesterday. Government has established a reign of terror in the streets of Dublin. Secret information has been received by the government that it is trying to create an opportunity to let loose 6,000 troops on the citizens. Special powers have been given to officers of the military, and orders that have never been exceeded in bloodthirstiness in the annals of crime against humanity. Thousands more arrests are expected, though the jails are already overflowing."

The Land League has proclaimed "no rent" as the order of the day. We confidently appeal to our brethren in America for the widows and orphans, for the homeless and starving and for the wounded victims of British bullets, bayonets, and cold-blooded butchery."

As is well known none of the Democratic Senators have consented to push a motion since he voted with the Republicans on the organization of the Senate last March. They do not recognize him as belonging to any healthy political organization. A large number are now favoring the application of the same rule to David Davis.

In Ohio, this year, the greenback vote was 100. What a precious vote rag-bag—it will never get big enough to be weaned.

Vote for BIRD, for recorder, he is a competent and self-made young man.

The Irish troubles are about over. By the landowners' manifesto to pay no rent, the Irish lost the sympathy of many good men, and the English government will be able to enforce order and quiet much more easily now than heretofore seemed possible.

REGULATE THE SECTIONS.

In our endeavor to preserve health it is of the utmost importance that we keep the secretory system in perfect condition. The well-known remedy Kidney-Wort, has a powerful action on the kidneys, liver and bowels. Use it instead of doing with vile venereal or drastic pills. It is purely vegetable, and is prompt and mild in action. It is prepared in both dry and liquid form and sold by all druggists—Reading Eagle.

Vote for KELLER, for treasurer, he is honest and in his hands the public funds will be safe.

—Lewins, of the Philad. Branch Clothing hall, is prepared to suit, fit, please, and save money for all classes of men and boys in ready made garments. The professional man, the mechanic, the laborer, and the gentleman, can find suits or single pieces, pants, coats, vests, over coats, underwear, hats, collars, neckties, or anything in the line of wearing apparel, at better bargains than any other store in the state will offer. Mr. Lewins will be found a perfect gentleman, fair in all his dealings.

The question of jurisdiction is to be raised in Guiteau's case. Mr. R. T. Merrick, a prominent member of the district bar, said that if the Court requested him as amicus curiae to argue the question of jurisdiction he would do so, but would confine himself to that question. Mr. Merrick asked: "The Circuit Court of this District has decided on two different occasions in similar cases that it was without jurisdiction and one of the most learned judges that ever occupied a seat on the bench of the Supreme Court, made a similar decision when the question arose in the circuit—a decision concurred in by the District judge who sat with him in the case. There is no statute applicable to this District which changes the rule of the common law upon which the decisions were founded, and I think it would be much less creditable to the country that the Circuit Court should be lynch law than that it should be lynch law by the Court."

What a queer thing law is sometimes, its hooks and crooks are always enough to let go of the big criminals and not too big to hold the smaller ones.

Vote for McCLAIN, for register, he is one of Centre County's most deserving young men.

Some of the republicans who delight in slandering, failing in their assaults upon the characters of Dunkle, Larimer and Harper, have turned their backs against D. C. Keller, our nominee for Treasurer. Guiteau's manifesto will not stick on Mr. Keller either. We have known him as a neighbor for many years, and we are proud to say our nominee bears a better, clearer and brighter character than any of these slandering whangers who are assailing him. Dan Keller is too well known to the people of this county to try that game on him successfully.

Vote for GIBBS and WOLFE, for commissioners, they can be implicitly relied upon to take care of the interests of the county.

A quantity of United States bonds representing $800 and several United States notes, aggregating in value about $10, were received at the treasury department this morning, accompanied by an unsigned note requesting that the whole be placed to the credit of the conscience fund. The sender, evidently intending upon defrauding the bonds so that they could never be used, cut them into strips. The bonds, therefore, cannot be identified, hence the object for which the owner intended them is defeated. None of the numbers of the bonds were found upon them, having all been cut off. The package will be retained at the department until the balance of the bonds notes is received or the owner calls for their return. The package came from Cincinnati.

Cameron, Grant and Logan were crowded with the President the other night. Statements to the front. The latest claim rumors run thus:

The fact that the complete slate will not be sent in until December has stopped somewhat the gossip over the cabinet. The latest arguments give Miller the postmaster generalship, Sargent the navy department, with Morgan at the treasury, and the rest of the cabinet.

A rumor prevalent gave Longstreet the navy department, transferred Lincoln to the attorney generalship and gave General Beane the war department, the latter appointment being considered as a compliment to Grant. The latter is known to have spoken since Garfield's death in high terms of Brewster's fitness as successor of McKee.

The majority of Centre county republicans will vote for Cameron's ticket. Wolfe will get a fair sprinkling of republican votes; if all who are yearning for the restoration of the republic rule, were consistent and voted for Wolfe, he would get more republican votes in this county than Bailey, the bots nominee.

There are statements telegraphed from Washington that Mr. George Scoville, Guiteau's counsel, proposes to bring out in his client's defense the connection of the Salway Republicans with the inception of the assassination. It is also stated, as quite probable, that the District Court in Washington will decide it has no jurisdiction in the case, because death occurred in New Jersey. If this is so it will send Guiteau to New Jersey for trial. The Judge has decided to allow fees and expenses for Guiteau's witnesses, and we take no stock in the report that he will decide adversely to his own power to try the case.

The president made a cabinet appointment, by choosing ex-gov. Morgan of New York for Secretary of the Treasury. It is rumored that he is to resign in three months and Conkling to have the place.

MR. JELLETCH AND HIS FAMILY BEREAVED TO DEATH.
San Francisco, Oct. 20.—A dispatch from Jackson, Amador county, says: The residence of T. Jellicch, one mile from here, was destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock this morning and all the inmates, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Jellicch and their two children, a girl two years of age and an infant son six months old, perished in the flames.

The Huntington county republicans have pronounced in favor of MacVeigh for governor.

A FALSE CHARGE

CENTRE HALL, Oct. 25, 1881.
MR. D. F. LUKS, Sec'y of the Farm. Mut. Fire Ins. Co.

Dear Sir: I am informed that a report that I have stolen or embezzled $500 of the above company, will be kind enough to state whether such is the fact or whether there is the least ground for such a charge.

Respectfully, &c.
H. C. CAMPBELL.

REPLY.
CENTRE HALL, Oct. 25, 1881.
H. C. CAMPBELL, ESQ.

Dear Sir:—In reply to your note in reference to the charge you state is being made against you, I would say that there is no truth in the charge whatever; you have not stolen or embezzled a cent of the funds of our company, and that all your transactions with it thus far have been strictly honest.

Yours &c.
D. F. LUKS, Sec'y F. M. F. Ins. Co.

BUYING CONFEDERATE BONDS.
New York, Oct. 13.—A broker today advertised his wish to buy $100,000 of confederate bonds, and expresses a willingness to pay for them at the rate of one-fifth per cent. In an interview he said: "I have already purchased $100,000 of them and I have advertised for $100,000 more. I am buying them in accordance with orders from correspondents."

Inquiries among other brokers showed that there were several of them engaged in buying these bonds at about the above prices.

IRELAND'S TROUBLE.
The League Proclaimed.
London, October 20.—The Land League has been proclaimed as an illegal and criminal organization, and at all its meetings will be dispersed by force. The proclamation was issued by Earl Cowper, the Lord Lieutenant. It is now said that the business of the League will be transferred to Bontigue.

The police arrangements in connection with the Farnell demonstration at Hyde Park on Sunday are very extensive. Five hundred constables will be kept in reserve at the magazine. Along the route of the procession, police will be stationed in such a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,000 feet moving first south-west. A few minutes later we reached an upper current moving slowly westward, so slowly that we barely moved. But what a prospect beneath us. We were soon shut out by night, and had nothing but myriads of lights twinkling in the distance. We remained there suspended neither rising nor falling for several hours. But at last a puff of air set our sails a disposition today. If you should see us now, dragged, torn, water-soaked and exposed, you would surely say we loved civilization. Before five minutes after leaving terra firma we reached an altitude of 4,0

PENNS VALLEY'S
CHEAP CASH STORE.

IMMENSE STOCK OF NEW FALL GOODS.

DEFIES ALL COMPETITION!

NONE ABLE TO COMPETE WITH DINGES' POPULAR STORE!

An entire new stock of DRY GOODS.

DRESS-GOODS.

NOTIONS,

GROCERIES, QUEENSWARE,

OVERCOATS at Prices so low as to astonish the oldest inhabitant. Overcoats from $3 up; please examine my line before purchasing elsewhere, as I am sure I can save you money.

The best line of Boots, for the least money.

CLOTHING

for children of 5 years and up—new stock and big assortment.

Big stock of general merchandise which I am selling lower than anyone.

C. DINGES.

HARDWARE.

Jas. Harris & Co

ARE SELLING VERY LOW

REAPER SECTIONS and REAPERS

And all kinds of Farming Tools.
RAKES, FORKS, SCYTHES, SPROUTS HAY FORKS, ROPE BLOCKS, ETC.

As well as all kinds of HARDWARE, to meet all demands of this line.

JAS. HARRIS & CO.
Belleville.

HENRY BOOZER.
CENTRE HALL.

MANUFACTURER OF
Saddles, Harness, Bridles, Collars, Whip-Flynets and also keeps on hand Cotton Nets, etc. Prices low as any where else.
All kinds of repairing done. The best stock always kept on hand. All work warranted. A share of the public patronage is solicited.

DR. G. W. HOSTERMAN,

DENTIST.

Centre Hall. Office at residence on Church street, opposite Luth. Church. Will give satisfaction in all branches of his profession, either administered. 14apr.

HENRY BROCKEROFF. J. D. SHUGER.

President. Cashier.

CENTRE COUNTY BANKING CO.

(Late Milliken, Hoover & Co.)

Receive Deposits,
And Allow Interest,

Discount Notes,

Buy and Sell
Government Securities, Gold & Coupons.

10ap88t

PENNSVALL Y BANKING CO.

CENTRE HALL, PA.

RECEIVE DEPOSITS and allow Interest; Discount Notes; Buy and Sell Government Securities, Gold and Coupons.

WM. WOLF Wm. S. MINGLE
Pres't Cashier

DR. J. W. RHONE. Dentist, can be found at his office and residence on North side of High Street, three doors East of Allegheny, Bellefonte, Pa.
27feb tf.

JERRY MILLER

BARBER and HAIRDRESSER. The comment of the hair by the most skillful in fashionable style.

JOHN F. POTTER, Attorney-at-law. Collections promptly made and special attention given to those having lands or property for sale. Will draw up and have acknowledged Deeds Mortgages, &c. Office in the law and north side of the court house, Bellefonte.

BROCKEROFF HOUSE.

(Opposite Court house.)

H. BROCKEROFF, WM. McKEEVER Prop'r. Manager.

Good sample rooms on first floor. Free buss to and from all trains.

Special rates to Witnesses and Jurors.
21apry Strictly First Class.

THE GREATEST BARGAINS

---AT THE---

PHILAD.

BRANCH

In Ready Made

CLOTHING.

LOWER IN PRICE THAN ANY WHERE IN THE STATE.

BETTER IN QUALITY THAN ANY OTHER STORE YOU CAN FIND. MOST WONDERFUL BARGAINS.

No Shoddy! No Humbug!

When you buy of SAM'L LEWINS,

of the famous

PHILAD. BRANCH.

The Centre Reporter.
SUPPLEMENT.

Centre Hall, Pa., Thurs. Oct. 27, 1881.

A water spout which passed over the district of Milah, Algeria, killed seventy-five persons.

The election is at hand—the man that wins and makes most money is the that buys his clothing at the Philad.
Branch. Try it.

For applying to wounds made by removing large limbs in pruning fruit trees nothing is better, says the New-England Farmer, than gum shellac dissolved in alcohol to the consistency of paint. This should be kept in a bottle, tightly corked when not in use and applied with an old brush.

Liberia, according to a letter from Bishop Penick, of the episcopal church, is in a dismal condition. The whole of Cape Mount district is involved in war. The savages are destroying farms and towns.
The people are starving, and the greatest distress prevails. "Neither pen nor words," he says, "can describe the horrors of the case. Hundreds are dying of starvation. Food cannot be had. Cassadas and potatoes are stolen from the fields, leaving the owner perish with hunger.
Men drop dead. Robbery is the rule; no property is safe." He says that a ship-load of rice is a pressing necessity.

A LADIE'S PET FISH.

(Mariboro (Mass.) Union-Journal.)

There lives in Sandwich, Mass., on the borders of one of the most charming lakes in America, Mrs. F. H. Burgess. It has been her custom once or twice a day for quite a period to feed the fish of this lake, and we were favored with an invitation to witness this novel feat. She first splashed the water with her hand, when in a moment there may be seen approaching from every direction hundreds of large shiners, then eels, varying in size from one to about three feet in length, may be seen cautiously approaching.
Next turtles appear on the surface, ten, twenty and thirty feet away their necks stretched apparently to see whether it is friend or foe who is disturbing the waters.
In less than three minutes these various species had collected before her, and as she commenced to feed the water was fairly alive with them. They take bread directly from her hands, and turtles would allow her to take them entirely out of the water, and while she held them in one hand they would eat with the greatest voracity from the other. But the eels amuse us the most. There was one she called Ruin, measuring about three feet in length, that repeatedly came to the surface, and would glide back and forth through her hands, and several times she lifted him partially out of the water, but he was careful to keep his head under.
He seemed to feel that she would take no undue liberties with him so long as his head was in its natural element, but the moment he saw daylight he would dart back as only an eel could. Another small one about a foot in length, seemed to be particularly fond of her caresses and could be handled about as she pleased, it being understood that he was to remain under water, though.

THE CENTRE REPORTER.
WM. KURTZ, Associate Editor.
Centre Hall, Pa., Th'rs. Oct. 27, '81

First in the Field
with a full line of FALL AND WINTER GOODS.

Select for our Trade in the Great Markets,
CALL EARLY
for BEST BARGAINS

WHITMER & CO
Spring Mills Pa.
L. & T. RAILROAD.

TRAINS LEAVE WESTWARD.

Station	Time
Mont Alto	7:15
Shippensburg	7:30
Carlisle	7:45
Gettysburg	8:00
Harrisburg	8:15

TRAINS LEAVE EASTWARD.

Station	Time
Harrisburg	8:30
Gettysburg	8:45
Carlisle	9:00
Shippensburg	9:15
Mont Alto	9:30

LOCAL ITEMS.

Readers of Bower's house and square situated at Ansonburg.

Mr. Wolf, of the old stand, is now in the city for a new stock of fall goods, which will reach here in a few days.

He will bring an assortment that will surpass anything heretofore in the valley, and it is well known that Wolf's stock is always No. 1 for genuine goods and complete assortment. His long experience in the trade enables him to know what our people want, and he will never get behind in offering up trash or damaged goods.

Sam'l Hartger, of Gregg, intending to quit farming, will make sale on the 24th of Nov. Read adv. in another column.

Anything from a little chair, up to the handsomest chamber suit, to be had at low figures, at Brown's new furniture room on Bishop street. Folks can get housekeeping can save sums of money by purchasing their furniture at Browns.

Farmers can dispose of their produce at the highest market price at Sechters. They will take anything in the line of produce.

In order to accommodate our advertisers as well as our readers, we are obliged to issue supplements. The Kurtz's being one of the most widely circulated papers in the county, business men find it an excellent medium to reach the public.

Trunks and valises, large and small, high and low priced, for sale at Kurtz's, Philadelphia. Also, Europe, to the north pole or the moon, at Dinger's bargain store, cheapest yet offered.

There is much sickness in Bollburg and vicinity, mostly typhoid fever.
Old father Young is very low.

Do you know, man or wife, that if you want pure spices, pure sugar and coffee or tea, and genuine sugar, that Sechters is the place where you can always get the best quality of goods. This we say from our own experience, and any one dealing there will tell you the same.

Dinger's new goods have arrived—and
oh, boy, Polly, Sally, Hilly, Molly, Kate or Bessy, you'll like to see all the styles and patterns brought in the valley, and just the assortment to let us ladies keep right up with the city. Come in, if we get our dress goods of Clev.

While on his way to Millheim, last Friday evening, Rev. Dick ran into a hitching post at Nittany Hall, Pa., where the students of his college, and the Reverend gentleman, upon the spot with such a force as to fracture several ribs.

The venerable Chas. Dale, of Harrisburg, now 75 years of age, spent an hour with the Kirtz's the other day. He is hale and hearty.

Apples are plenty in Penn and Brush valleys and have been selling at low 25 cts. per bushel. Order $2.00 per barrel.

Lewins knows how to "take in" men and boys. He shows them his stock and before they go out they have a bundle of ready-made clothing which he offers so low and cheap that they cannot resist the temptation. That Lewins is a renowned man.

A little son of James A. Keller, near this town, made a narrow escape from the other day, while he was assisting in gathering apples. A sled on which about 15 bushels of the fruit was placed ran over him when the horses started, the runner turning him round and round until he passed over. The boy was somewhat injured but in a few days he was found out of danger next day.

Mr. Daniel Bower, of Akron, Ohio, his old home, and he paid his respects to the Kirtz's. Mr. Bower left our valley some 20 years ago, and he likes Ohio, and we are pleased to find him in the good old democratic faith.

Fewer, Powers, that is the name of the place that furnishes the best quality of goods in the line of boots and shoes.
They always offer the best bargains.
Call at Powers & Son for boots and shoes before purchasing elsewhere.

Jacob Harpster, of this town, has killed 105 grey squirrels so far this fall. Jake's a good shot.

A little boy, aged about six years, named Laird, living with John G. Eyer, near this place, fell from a hickory tree, last Saturday, and broke one of his legs above the knee.

Ladies always find the best fitting stock, and the latest styles at Doll & Mingie's, in the Brokerhoff house block at Bellefonte.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of getting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

How to get rid of CANADA THISTLES.
Mr. Jacob Bobb, of this place, has
been experimenting to some extent in
order to ascertain the best way of get-
ting rid of Canada thistles that grow
in the field. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime. He has tried salt, coal oil,
and lime.

INTERNATIONAL LESSONS.
LESSON V.—NADAB AND ABIHU.
Sunday, October 30, 1881.
Lev. x. 1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Ye shall be holy; for I am holy.
EXPLANATORY NOTES.

1. Nadab and Abihu. These were the two eldest sons of Aaron, the high priest.
They were from their relation to Aaron, men of name and note in Israel, and they were formally consecrated to the service of the tabernacle, and were the first of the order of the priests.

2. Fire from the Lord. That is, from
the shekinah which was resting on the
tabernacle.

3. Devoured them. Destroyed them, as their bodies were consumed, as appears from verse 4.

4. They died before the Lord. The expression "died before the Lord" is used in the Bible to denote a violent death, as in the case of the Israelites who were slain by the Lord for their unbelief.

5. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

6. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

7. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

8. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

9. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

10. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

11. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

12. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

13. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

14. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

15. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

16. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

17. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

18. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

19. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

20. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

21. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

22. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

23. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

24. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

25. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

26. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

27. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

28. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

29. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

30. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

31. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

32. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

33. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

34. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

35. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

36. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

37. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

38. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

39. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

40. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

41. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

42. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

43. The Lord spake. Not by the
voice of the Lord, but by the voice of
the shekinah, which was resting on the
tabernacle.

A Triple Crime.
A correspondent of the Ocala Bee gives an account of a high-handed crime on the family of Mr. Lewis Yocum, in the vicinity of Kylesburg, on the night of the 1st inst.

While Mr. Yocum was in the barn, five of his sons, who were in the house, were seized and carried to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

They were then taken to the barn,
where they were kept until the morning.

HONEST AND HANDSOME
DRESS GOODS
AT AN AVERAGE OF ABOUT
FIFTY CENTS ON THE DOLLAR.

Last season there were imported about twice as many of these Dress Goods as were sold; consequently many lots had to be carried over in bond. This season the importers, in order to realize on them, placed them upon the market at prices bearing little relation to real values.

In their Closing Sale of last January, STRAWBRIDGE & CLOTHIER

Sold almost to the bare shelves, and consequently have been in condition to secure nearly all the bargain lots offered. A few specimen lots are mentioned below:

44-INCH POWDER CLOTHS
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

44-INCH CASHMERE
at 50 cents.

NEW YORK
CLOTHING HOUSE!

WE DESIRE TO ANNOUNCE THAT WE ARE OFFERING THIS SEASON A STOCK OF MENS', YOUTHS', BOYS'
and CHILDRENS'
CLOTHING.

—ALSO—
GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS, HATS, TRUNKS,
ETC., ETC.,
that we are confident will merit your closet attention. Our stock embraces the
—Newest Styles and Designs,— especially manufactured to meet the requirements of those appreciating FIRST-CLASS GOODS.

New York Clothing House,
Op. Brokerhoff House,
M. ASH, Prop.,
Bellefonte.

THE GREAT
BURLINGTON ROUTE.

For other lines run from Harrisburg to New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, and other cities, see the Circulars, which are sent free on application to the Agents.

